

Urchins are a type of echinoderm, relatives of the starfish and sand dollar. All echinoderms have shells covered with skin and spines. What could eat this living pin cushion? Starfish are the main predators of sea urchins. They break off the spines one by one, leaving the urchin defenseless!